One of the Reading assignments seventh-graders had last quarter implied writing a short passage using the vocabulary from a story they had read in the class. The work below, done by a student who preferred to remain anonymous demonstrates that even a plain vocabulary task can be easy and entertaining with the help of one's great imagination.

P.S. The words in bold were to be used in writing. (Ms. Vicky)

Grover the Ninja was stuck in class, listening to the obscure explanations of his Strategy teacher. Grover wished he could just vanish into the thin air and be somewhere else. Then the teacher left, and Grover felt compelled to see which instructor would come next. It turned out to be Leo, who apparently lived in the mountains, in solitude. He had little or no common sense. "HA-HA! I IS YOUR MASTER NINJA, I ARE TEACH YOU!" he screamed to the class. Leo used to be devoted to changing himself into a ninja-lion, which instead turned him into a furious, fearless cat with glowing red eyes. He was also everyone's favorite teacher. He drew a weird thing that didn't look like anything on the whiteboard and said, "THIS IS NATURAL PHENOMENON. THIS TORNADO!"

Finally, first quarter has come to an end. Congratulations to all who achieved high grades. And to those who did not get the chance, may the 1st Quarter be not a discouragement or a stumbling block, but a stepping-stone as we begin the second quarter with excitement and enthusiasm. May we always remember that the HOPE, the STRUGGLE and the HARD WORK towards a goal/success are part of the rewards. Achieving one's goal itself is not the whole reward.....BEST WISHES.

Sci-Challenge

The sci-challenge is to test your common knowledge of science through puzzles, quizzes and trivia. The rule is simple. Every week the sci-challenge will come up with different format of mental teasers focusing only on science. You need to complete all these tasks and by the end of the month the winner will be announced and rewarded. So, in other words complete a least 4 sci-challenges, submit them and get your reward. Remember, the first correctly accomplished sci-challenge to be submitted will be declared the winner.

This week's first sci-challenge is a puzzle. There are 25 biology terms/words hidden in the puzzle below. Complete the task by finding all the terms/words.
